SLUGGING AND ERRORS.

The Combination That Helped the Leaders Defeat the Brewers. The Hogan-Buschman sprinting match and the first appearance of Blackburn, the new pitcher, formed a double attraction at the ball park yesterday afternoon in addition to the game itself, and as a result over three thousand people were at the grounds when the game commenced. The grand stand was crowded to the limit, and the bleacher crowd so overflowed into the field that ground rules, allowing runners only one base on balls hit into the crowds were adopted. McDermott was sick, and Fisher, of the local team, and Rettger, of the visitors, officiated, alternating on base decisions and on balls and strikes. The arrangement worked well, and there was very little wrangling by either side. Blackburn, the new man, was given a hearty cheer when he went into the box. At the end of the first inning, however, he was not a very strong favorite. He displayed much nervousness and was as wild as a hawk. As the team made three errors behind him in this inning, however, he was not altogether to blame for the disastrous results. He was really hit hard only in the fifth inning, when the visitors landed on to his delivery for four hits in rapid succession. He seems to pitch nothing but a straight ball, but somehow the Brewers failed to find them with any unusual success. Several of the hits scored against him were made after chances were given to retire the side. All things considered, the young man did not do so bad, and may turn out a good find for the leaders. He shows a lack of training necessary for fast company, but may acquire this under caraful management. Blackburn, is a big, muscular fellow, and does not look unlike Fisher, being of the same build and about the same size.

The game was a slovenly one on both sides, and was long drawn out and tire-some towards the close. Hits and errors were so numerous and the playing so slow that the game was called at the end of e eighth inning in accordance with the neral demand of those remaining at the time. The home team started off with a rush, and made more than enough runs in the opening inning to win any ordinary game. Baker started in to pitch for Milwaukee, but only lasted three innings, Mc-Cauley taking his place. The latter was wild and ineffective and lasted no longer than Baker, Twitchell going in to the box at the end of the seventh. He was just as has retained the leading law firm to defend tically a farce, so far as Milwaukee figured. Hegan's three-base drive, Newell's two-baser, singles by Canavan, Roat, Motz and McFarland, coupled with errors by Mc-cauley, Weaver and Twitchell, resulted in eight runs. The game looked like a cinch at this point, but the crowd groaned aloud when the visitors came in and made seven on a combination of four bases on balls, three hits and three errors. The Hoosiers made four more in the second on a base on balls, three hits, a wild pitch, a passed.

his case, and the fight will be to the bitter end to test the question of Sunday games. It will kill baseball in Anderson if they are not permitted on that day. The management has been very particular about order, and officers are at all games to quell any manifestations of disorderly conduct. The game at the park last Sunday with Minneapolis was the most orderly of the season.

A three-bagger by Canavan, Woods's double, Glenalvin's homerun drive, McFarland's two-base hit and an error allowed four Hoosiers to cross the arland, a base on balls, two outs and double by Sharpe gave the visitors two in the third. Both sides were blanked in the fourth, but the Hoosiers scored two more in the fifth on three errors, two outs and one single. Milwaukee went them two better in their half of the inning on clean hitting.

In the sixth Indianapolis made hits ga-ore, singles, doubles and three-baggers folowing each other in rapid succession, with he result that six men crossed the home plate. A base on balls, an out, an error and a bit scored one run for the Brewers. The visitors were blanked in both the seventh nd eighth, but the home team made two in the seventh on Canavan's three-bagger, a wild pitch, a base on balls and Motz's hit. Newell was slightly hurt in the seventh, McCarthy taking his place. The short-stop will be all right to-day, however.

College Pitcher on Anderson. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., July 16.-Anderson is filled to-night with five hundred wildly hilarious citizens from Muncie, who are parading the streets with their brass band shouting the praises of the Elk's basebail team, which defeated Anderson Elks in an exciting contest to-day by a score of 24 to 19. The visitors, five hundred strong, arrived in the city at 11 o'clock this morning on a special train and made a fine appearance as they marched to the public square under the escort of the reception committee. A special street ra..way train had been chartered and the Elks, with their ladies and "rooters," were given a free ride over the city. Before the game this afternoon both teams, headed by brass bands, a funeral car and two ambulance wagons, paraded the streets and then marched to the ball park, where 1,500 people soon congregated. In the toss-up Muncie took the ield and Anderson Elks scored six runs off pitcher George Spilker as a starter. The visitors secured four in their half. Anderson added four in the second and Muncie did the same. The visitors were then shut out, but three runs were added to Anderson's score. At this stage of the game, Will Holmes, an ex-Princeton player, went in the box for uncle, three more runs being secured for the home team. Anderson then went to pieces and permitted Muncie to make elevruns, tying the score, and then the Mun-e people found their voices and everybody Anderson secured three in the fifth, it Muncle went two better with five and a total of twenty-four. The locals could do nothing in the first half of the sixth, and there the game was called. The teams marched off the field, Anderson to the solemn measure of a funeral dirge, and the Muncie boys amid cheering hundreds to a quick step. The game abounded in many features, among which were the frequent calls for the ambulance when some player gave out and was hurriedly taken to the hospital tent where "Elks' E-lixer" soon restored them. The receipts of the game will be devoted to Charitable purposes. Score:

Sporting Notes.

Kansas City is playing in great luck. Canavan was very much in evidence with the bat yesterday. It cost Captain Ewing just $50 to say he didn't like the umpire's decision.

Carsey gave the "Colts" but five hits resterday, while Terry let the "Quakers" have seventeen. The girl may recover, but Conner cannot. The shooting was the result of a quarrel. Conner called at the Conley home last evening and remained until this morning. When the girl told Conner it was daylight he became angry and, drawing a revolver, he shot her in the left temple. The girl rushed from the house just as a policeman was passing. The officer hurried into the house and found Conner on the floor with a bullet in his head. Both the girl and Conner were sent to a hospital.
